In-Home Parent Coaching Consultation

Planting The Seed

A consultation is the first step in determining the needs of your family. Our educator will observe your child and family in the natural environment (the natural environment may be home and/or where they spend their time). We are looking for family interactions, dynamics, existing behavior management, methods of self control and self regulation, communication abilities, the child's attention and more. Our goal of the consultation is to gather information to identify whether intervention is needed and what type of intervention is recommended.

Helping the young child in your life BLOOM!

Consultation: $300

- Intake interview
- Home/school observation
- Team meeting
- Recommendations/
programming

3 hours

- May take place in multiple environments (home/school)
- All family members encouraged to be present in the home

After the observation:

Together the educator and parents will discuss the observation results and recommendations. As a team we will determine if In-Home Parent Coaching would benefit your family and help your child bloom!
